EDUCATIONAL GOALS AND EXPECTED LEARNING OUTCOMES

The course provide the theoretical and technical elements in wood processing with particular regard to the production of panels and the main products derived from wood. Final competencies to be obtained in the course: systematic understanding and practical skills in the technical, environmental and mechanical aspects of wood processing. At the end of the course, students will also be able to distinguish the different types of products, the relevant Standard Regulations (UNI, EN, ISO) and health risks during wood processing.

- Knowledge and understanding: knowledge and understanding of the general principles governing, both at a qualitative and quantitative level, the physical and mechanical performance of wood panels.
- Applying Knowledge and understanding: ability to identify the principal wood products (particle board, plywood, medium density fiber, glued laminated boards). Ability to identify and to describe the industrial processes and the different used wood species. ,
- Making judgements: ability to discriminate the different properties of wood products and the possible uses.
- Communication skills: ability to organize and communicate in a logical and correct language the acquired knowledge during course.
- Learning skills: ability to collect and organize in a functional way the information coming from class lectures, suggested books, and literature data.
